Ray Miller's death abroad has been quickly followed by that of George Ogilby Haig, the son-in-law of Mrs. Astor. He was comparatively unknown here in New York, and only made one brief stay in America since his marriage to the former Mrs. J. Coleman Drayton. But nevertheless his demise is more regretted by New York society than would have been that of some much nore familiar figure thereof. For it has had the effect of causing his mother in-law, Mrs. Astor, to recall the invitations for the ball which she was to have given in accordance with her wont on the second Monday of Janu Not only will Mrs. Astor's ball be pu off, but the dance that Mrs. John Jacob Astor was to have given at her on Fifth avenue, on January 19, will likewise have to be postponed, while Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, who had planned several entertainments this winter, will be forced to abandon them.

Mrs. Haig May Return to America.

Now that Mrs. Haig has become vidow, it is probable that she will spend nuch less time than heretofore in England, and no one would be surprised if she were for the future to make her The latter is well advanced in years nd, although she has the most faithful of companions and the most devoted of etainers, it is only natural that she should like to have, in the eventide of her life, one of her children constantly with her. True, her son, Colonel Astor, lives next door, and her daughter, Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, when in town, never permits a day to pass without visiting her mother. But for all that, Mrs. Astor is a good deal alone and the prese her daughter, Mrs. Haig, would add to the interest of her life.

Big Dances Coming for This Week.

Among the many dances set for this week is that of Mrs. Robert M. Thompson at Sherry's on Wednesday night. Mrs. Thompson's husband played a prominent part in the entertainment of Prince Louis of Battenberg, and her daughter, Mrs. Stephen H. P. Pell, who also figured conspicuously on that occa-sion, will help her to entertain her guests. On the following evening Mrs. George L. Kingsland gives a ball at Sherry's for her daughter, Miss Ethel Kingsland, their relationship through Primre the Astors to George Ogilvy Haig be-ing of too remote a character to render any postponement of the entertainment necessary. On the same evening Mrs. Henry Lancing Wardwell will give a dance, also at Sherry's, for Miss Dorothea Fales Wardwell, who is one of the debutantes of the season.

MARINO'S UTOPIAN POSTAL SYSTEM

For Many Years Free Mail Service Within Country Itself.

The republic of San Marino, the smallest on the globe, which is about to send for the first time a minister plenipotentiary to the United States, possesses a postal system in many re-

This republic has a population of about 10,000, and an area about half the size of the District of Columbia. Situated in the heart of Italy, a continental railroad traverses it. The annual budget is about $30,000, an amount such as Congress would appropriate for the expenses of a "commission" of some sort.

First Distinctive Stamps.

The first series of distinctive postage stamps for San Marino were issued in 1877. Before that stamps of Italy and Sardinia were used, and these stamps with a genuine San Marino postmark are extremely rare and valuable today. San Marino's arrangement with Italy, until 1877, was somewhat informal. After that date a regular schedule was prepared by the terms of which mail matter to and from San Marino was treated exactly as Italian mail.

The design adopted by San Marino for its first series of stamps has been dhered to until the present date, with the exception of a special series in 1894. The stamp is about the same size as those issued for the Fan-American Exposition at Buffalo. Within a heart-shaped design in the center is a shield upon which appears what is sup-posed to be the coat-of-arms of the country. It consists of three pyramids with a tower on each, and above this a chimney projects. This is surmounted by a feather, the quill dipping into the chimney. Many denominations and col-ors have been printed, but the same design is always used.

No One-Cent Stamps.

The first stamps issued were of the values of 2, 10, 20, and 40 centisimi. The rate for newspapers was 1 cent each, but as at that time there was no newspaper published in San Marino, the use of such a stamp was not great. When a newspapublished in San Marino, the use of such a stamp was not great. When a newspaper was finally started its postage was paid by cutting the 2-cent stamp twice diagonally and using one of the parts. The first periodical issued monthly was a magazine devoted to stamp collecting. This doubtless arose from the great interest manifest among philatelists in the stamps of San Marino. The government ordered 10,000 of the 30-cent stamps overprinted with the fig-ure "5," and these were used in mailing subsequent issues of the stamp papers Later 20,000 of the 10-centisimi stamps were overprinted for the same purpose. The letters "cmi," abbreviation for centisimi, followed the figure "5" on the overprinting and the limitations of the issim, followed the figure "5" on the overprinting and the limitations of the local printing office were such that in order to set up the "5-cmi" a sufficient number of times to print a sheet at one impression it was necessary to use many different faces of type. Letters and figures came upside down and numerous errors were made, so that twenty different types were made, furnishing stamp collectors with a great field for research and investigation.

The 50,000 stamps of the 10-cent denomination issued in 1877 lasted until 1892 and the two stamp papers used 20,000 of these. This indicates that the entire country used only six stamps a day for the denomination corresponding to our 2-cent stamp during a period of fifteen years. The people of the United States use more than 12,000 2-cent stamps daily.

POETRY IN PETERBUROUGH. The poetic muse has broken out in Peterborough, nt., where in the Dally Examiner John Bell sings seven verses on "Our British Empire." The verses are all about like this one:

England what are you coming to? This I ask in pity

This I ask in pity,
Your poor are starving on the streets,
In your London city:
Your Queen is doing all she can,
And so is your good King.
Your poor are starving on the streets,

I'm sorry thus to sing. John's sorrow seems appropriate. His
